Fr. Beatty Declares Election Campaign Opens Frats 'Closed Issue' Amid Cheers And Boos

On Wednesday, October 5, the Student Council met in Xavier Lounge and again discussed the question of whether fraternities should be recognized by Loyola College.

Father Campbell, moderator of the Council, read a letter from Fr. Beatty, stating the reasons why fraternities are not encouraged here.

Fr. Beatty brought out the conclusions of the Committee on Student Affairs, which showed a direct relation between Q.P.A. and membership in a fraternity.

Q.P.A.'s Fall

Conducted during the last academic year, the study covered a random sample of 30 persons--present and former students--who were members of a formally organized, but unrecognized, student social group.

The Q.P.A. average of 14 declined, of five fluctuated, of four rose, with data on the other 7 being insufficient. Four had scholarships and each lost it due to low marks.

Discrimination

Fr. Beatty said: "Loyola College . . . would never wish to become a party to the prevailing practice of many social fraternities whereby an aspiring member can be excluded from the group by the personal prejudice and negative vote of only one member."

Concerned with the lack of school spirit on the campus, Fr. Beatty enjoined all students to do their part by actively contributing their time to campus organizations.

Concluding, Fr. Beatty said: "For the present no chapter . . . shall be established . . . With this decision, I regard the question of fraternities in general a closed issue."

Dr. Varga

Mr. Mair

By John Feller

Last Wednesday afternoon the mock election campaign swung into high gear, when Dr. Nicholas Varga addressed a large crowd in Cohn Hall, and espoused the merits of Senator Jack Kennedy and the Democratic party. The address, which lasted approximately thirty minutes, and the question and answer period which followed, were received with cheers and boos by the bipartisan audience.

In his opening statements, Dr. Varga informed the group that it was rather obvious whom he preferred "Can I be objective then?" In answer to his own question, he asserted that once a person has made up his mind regarding a particular candidate and/or party, he can and must still be objective.

Addressing his remarks to the undecided, Dr. Varga told them that it was important to realize what we are doing in 1960. "We are electing a man who will be acting for 180 million persons, electing a man and a party who will set the tone of what we do in the future."

Emphasizing the importance of Mr. Kennedy and the Democratic Party, Dr. Varga attempted to establish the premise that "it is worthwhile voting for Kennedy. It is not worthwhile voting for Nixon." In pointing out the difference between the two candidates, he quoted Henry Ford II by stating dogmatically, "You don't play freedom safe." (This is what Mr. Nixon believes, he maintained.)

While it would be difficult to state how many were swayed one way or another, it was evident that some were angered by the opinionated remarks of the speaker.

Next Wednesday, the Republican sympathizers will have their turn when Mr. Hans Mair takes over the podium. Not being a Nixon supporter himself, Mr. Mair will deliver a non-partisan (sympathetic) appraisal of the Republican candidate, "imposed upon me by the deplorable absence of the voting privilege for aliens."

The essence of the talk will be based on a presentation of "a meaningful alternative to the Democratic juggernaut." Mr. Mair intends to devote part of his talk to disclosing a brief biography of the Vice President. This will be followed by an explication of the interparty fight for unity, the "Munich" in New York, and the Republican party platform.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir,

In the last issue of the Greyhound there were raised two points of particular interest to the student body. These points are the proposed mock election and the absurd generalization of Dennis Smyth concerning the democratic candidate John Kennedy.

We shall attempt to deal with these points in turn. First of all, a mock presidential election, outside of being a worthwhile practical exercise in voting procedure, would not serve any significant service. We say this because Loyola College is a Catholic institution and a possible endorsement of the Catholic candidate, John Kennedy, would not likely be looked upon by Protestants as an objective political judgment. On the contrary we feel that a possible endorsement of this sort would serve not only to intensify the hated religious issue but also affect the public opinion of Baltimore's non-Catholics.

Secondly, we would like to take objection to Dennis Smyth's assertion on the effect of education in the selection of both party and candidate. We cannot help wondering how Mr. Smyth can make such a naive assumption in view of the fact that Kennedy has, in fact, been endorsed by a significant portion of the knowledgeable intelligentsia of the U.S. While we are not interested in objecting to Mr. Smyth's political affiliations we must question his political maturity.

Sincerely,

Fred Benson, Pat Donnelly
Dave Pardoe, Ed McCormick

Dear Sir:

Pharisaic, though I be, my spirits were aroused by last week's rather Re"Publican" editorial; to wit, the letter of Mr. Dennis Smyth. Mr. Smyth's purely hyper-emotional approach to the coming elections is indicative of the "elephantine idealism" which too often confis-cates practical issues.

Your challenge to debate, Mr. Smyth, is accepted--Friday, Oct. 21st, 12 P.M. in a chosen location. Topic: Rep. vs Dem. Platform Chmn. of Debate: Mr. Thomas Curtis Dem. Rep.: J. W. Baynes, Alias Harry

Dear Sir:

Last week a much commented on letter appeared in this paper. But I cannot see why it caused any stir at all. A Republican challenging a Democrat to debate is not unusual, nor is the fact that the author cannot get a campaign button so unusual, nor is a Republican trying to insult Democratic intelligence so unusual. So, why did anyone even bother to read it a second time? much less comment on it? It left me cold.

John C. Ryan '63

Dear Sir,

I am happy to find a fellow student in Denny Smyth who has seen through the masculine charms of John Kennedy and recognizes his perfidy towards the working man and his antagonism to private enterprise. Alas! not everyone has the insight to clearly understand the situation.

Sincerely yours,
John P. Healy

Five More

Meet The New Faculty

Five new instructors have been added to the Loyola College day-school faculty for the 1960-61 academic year. Included in this number are two Loyola graduates.

The five teachers are Aldo Fortuna, Dan Heisey, Lloyd Shirley, Robert Strauch and George Zinkham. They will join the Mathematics, English and Accounting Departments.

From Hopkins

Joining the English Department is Mr. Aldo Fortuna, who has taught at Johns Hopkins University where he received his M.A. degree. He is now working on his doctorate and is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa honor fraternity.

Mr. Dan Heisey, a Loyola alumnus of '58 returns with a M.A. degree from JHU to teach mathematics. He has been associated with the Martin Co. and has taught math at McDonough High.

Two C. P. A.'s

A former member of the Evening School faculty, Mr. Lloyd Shirley will instruct Accounting majors. With a B.S. in Business Administration from Lehigh, Mr. Shirley is a C.P.A. and has an office in Towson, Md.

Another Loyola graduate of '58 Mr. Robert Strauch comes back from the University of Notre Dame, where he had a teaching fellowship and earned his M.S. degree. He gained Honorable Mention from the National Science Foundation in 1959.

With teaching experience at the University of Baltimore and an L.B. degree from the University of Maryland, Mr. George Zinkham will join the Accounting Department. A C.P.A., he also has a law office in the Munsey Building in downtown Baltimore.

The Watchdog

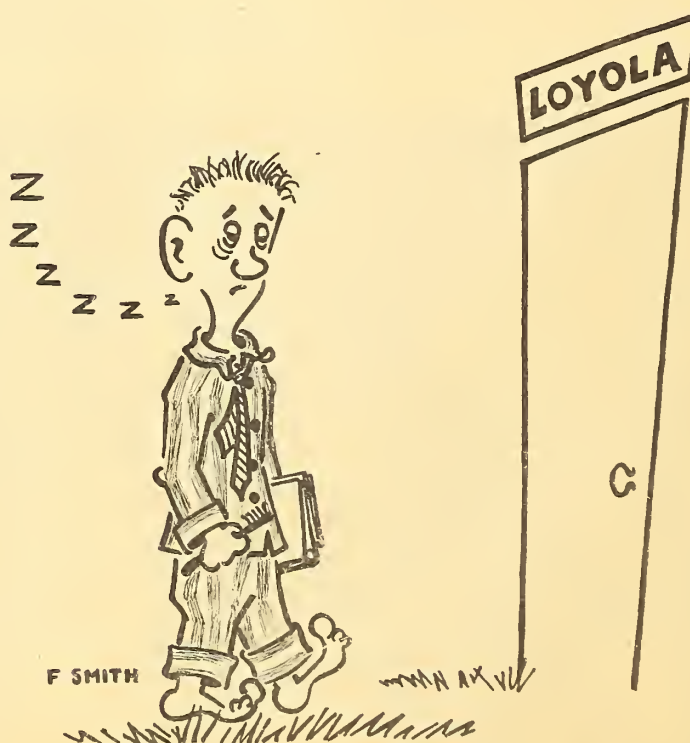

According to a fairly reliable report (word of mouth) floating about the campus, there will be no drill henceforth on Wednesday afternoons. The Cadre has announced that instead a leadership laboratory will be held each Wednesday on the athletic field. Anyone can see that this is a decided improvement over the old method(?).

For the past week a derby, a cane, and a mustache have been seen meandering at Evergreen. Either it is an attempt to revive the Twenties, or someone has forgotten to tell Joe Bowman that the publicity campaign for "The Importance of Being Earnest" is over.

When assignments for the seniors in advanced ROTC were given out, Ed Murn got lost in the crowd. The shortsightedness was soon realized, and Ed was promptly installed in a colorful ceremony as OG (?).

Who is Moll Flanders, the buxom babe whose pix is being carried around by several juniors? In a recent "top secret" memo to the English Department, it was disclosed that she has been appointed as special assistant to Father Lavin. At any rate, I nominate Moll for Queen of the Military Ball.

Campus Question

What is your opinion of compulsory Mass attendance on First Friday at Loyola College?

Tom Blair, '61

It seems to me that compulsory attendance at first Friday Mass is not the answer to the problem. These Friday Masses are not duties, but rather privileges. A sincere Catholic will attend Mass on his own. The important thing to be remembered is not the number that attend, but the benefits received.

Francis B. Holland, '64 Pol. Sci.

I think First Friday Mass should be compulsory, but the Mass should be held two or three times during the day. Then a student would be able to attend during free periods or after the last class. This system seems better to me than having everyone attend the one 9:00 a.m. Mass.

Gerard B. Knell, '61

Acct.

Compulsory First Friday is a good idea, and it coincides with the duty a Catholic college has upon it. But the system, newly instituted by the school, has a serious defect in the fact that a student who lives a good distance from school hasn't the opportunity to receive communion as others have. When a student gets up at 6:00 A.M. and drives some 30-40 miles, a good hot breakfast carries him through the day. The old system with a 12:00 Mass enabled this student to do both. I say let's go back to the old system.

Carroll Rankin, '63 A.B. Soc. Sci.

Compulsory attendance at First Friday Mass is a controversial topic. What are the reactions to it? One of them is: I have to, therefore I usually don't want to; another, I thought this was a College for men and not a high school for boys. Forcing people to go to Mass, when it is not covered by Church obligation, does more harm than good all around. If people don't want the Mass, the devil with them! Let's move that 9:00 A.M. class to 10:00 for those who want Mass and cease to force those

Thomas Curtis, '61 B.S. Pol. Sci.

I seriously doubt whether a truly beneficial spiritual state of mind can be induced by the application of external pressure. Therefore, I doubt whether compulsory first Friday will exert a beneficial influence on a student who is forced to attend.

Election Campaign

"My esteemed colleague Dr. Varga having preempted the Democratic 'slot,' I feel like a one-man 'truth squad,' spreading the gospel of Republicanism among a crowd of unbelievers."

From the above statements made by Mr. Mair, the talk this Wednesday should prove to be very interesting. The Greyhound staff encourages all its readers to go to the rally, and to take an active part in this mock election. (This includes all "unbelievers.")

Yearbook Opens Ad Campaign; Bonuses Given

Advertising spells the difference between success and failure for the 1961 Evergreen Annual, says Bucky Effinger, yearbook business manager. In announcing plans for a brisk campaign, Effinger pointed out that subscription rates are lower here than in many larger colleges and cover less than three fourths the cost of a college-size book.

Rates this year are scaled from $15 to $100. The 10% commission to student salesmen makes it possible for a senior to recoup the price of his own book by selling a full-page ad, others by selling a half-page. In addition, bonuses will be paid for early sales.

GREYHOUND SPORTS

By PETE COOK
Ass't Sports Editor

Tomorrow coach Lefty Reitz will hold the first official Hound basketball practice of the season. As usual the Hounds are looking forward to the coming season with a great deal of anticipation and high expectations.

Coach Reitz, however, is faced with the problem of replacing two of last year's starting five. Joe O'Hara, 6 foot five rebounder, scorer, and Mike Sneeringer 6'2" sharp shooter. Tom Gray, who supported both, has also left the scene.

Soph Candidates

Reitz has an adequate number of sophomore candidates trying out for the vacated spots on the varsity. Bob Schu and Tony Rivezzo, last year's number one and number two scorers of the freshman team have returned and gave Lefty a cause for hope. Charlie O'Donnell, Don Wallenhorst, Mickey Gardner and Gary Cucuel are also available from last year's frosh squad.

Coach Reitz has a strong nucleus back from last year's Mason-Dixon conference entry. John Heagney, a main cog in the Hound machine since he was a freshman, returns for his last campaign. John was high scorer last year with a 14.7 average.

Rebounder Back

Ed Murn, who along with O'Hara did the bulk of Loyola's rebounding last year, returns for his senior year sporting a 10.4 average from last year. Soph Phil Potter also returns from last year's squad to give Murn a hand with the rebounding.

Dave Carney and George Yurek return from last year's corps of guards. They saw considerable action last year and can be counted on to steady the incoming sophomores. Juniors Tony Torba, Jim Kennedy and John Kilkenny also return from the squad. Torba showed considerable improvement over the course of last year and should help the seniors with rebounding and scoring.

Booters Bumped 2-1 In Rain By Cards

Intramural Items

By MATT SCHWIENHECK

Last Wednesday intramural football again gained prominence on the campus. The two contests played were both fought to draws.

The Muleskins, an offspring of the Moleskins, tied the Powerhouse club 7-7. Tom Blair, scatback of the Muleskins, intercepted a pass on the enemies' initial play from scrimmage. On the Skins first offensive play Jim Kneafsey hit Tom Gentner with a 40 yard touchdown pass.

Crucial Play

The ensuing try for the extra point was no good, but because of a penalty, the play was brought back. Jim Kneafsey then threw to Jim Fowler to garner what eventually became the most important point of the game.

Hilton later passed for six points to bring the Powerhouse club within one point of the Skins. On the try for the extra point Hilton skirted right end for the equalizer.

The Muleskins' attack stalled several times within the enemy 30 yard line. One such attack was stopped when the Powerhouse Nine intercepted a Skin aerial in the end zone.

Paul Karpers played a great defensive game at his defensive end post. The opinion expressed by this last statement is not necessarily the viewpoint of this writer but that of Paul Karpers.

Dippers, Dorseys In Deadlock

The Dippers played for three quarters with eight men and fought the Dorseys to a 0-0 standstill. The fine defensive play of the Dippers enabled them to continually stop the offensive play of the rival club. Penalties continually stopped what offense each club could muster. Otherwise the game was a fine defensive contest.

versity inflicted a heartbreaking 2-1, double overtime loss upon a startled Loyola soccer team. It wasn't until after four minutes of the fourth quarter had elapsed before Dennis Grabowski gave favored Loyola its initial score with a neat boot into the corner. Carlos Larash of C.U. had scored the first goal of the contest early in the second period sneaking in a rain-slick ball. These representing the lone tallies at the end of the regulation eighty-eight minutes brought about the overtime sessions.

Cards End It

After fifty seconds of the second overtime Dan Andres of the Cardinals slipped one by a confused Loyola defense. Don Wallenhorst, waiting for a clearing pass from fullback Rick Campbell, was out of position to save the shot when the latter's pass was misdirected. While the ball moved listlessly in front of the goal, Andres wasted no time shoving it in, as Rick and Buffalo Bowman lay sprawling in desperate dives to stop it.

As well as being a gloomy day in all respects it was an unusual afternoon. While the clock showed no time left as C.U. was moving, the timekeeper failed to blow the horn. Coach Tommy Lind stormed up to the referee as the foreign partisans jeered.

Hounds Harrassed

The game also saw Wallenhorst ejected near the end of the overtime for his protests to the referee. Comic relief was offered by the mostly foreign fans as they sang songs of victory in their native tongues.

Keeping Loyola in the game throughout were outstanding efforts by Bill Knoche, Jim Kennedy, and Sammy Amato.

Tuesday the Hounds evened their season's record at 2-2 by a 5-0 win over the Eagles of American University. For the most part the game was played in A.U. territory as the Green and Gray put the offensive pressure on the visitors.

Harriers Humbled In Close Meet Frampton Stars

Loyola finally succumbed to defeat in their meet against Catholic University. The "Hounds" defeat was, however, nothing to be ashamed of. The score was 25½ to 29½ (the lower score always winning in cross-country.)

But even in defeat, the team made a terrific showing. Freshman Rick Frampton in his first college meet broke Catholic University's course record with a time of 14 minutes and 47 seconds for the 2.8 mile course. The man in second place was the former titleholder, Bob Coffren.

Lew Smith of the "Hounds" took fourth place and Bill Jenkins was in a tie for sixth place invoking the seldom used ½ point. Brian McCarthy placed eighth and Denny Voith placed tenth.

Opposition Strong

Catholic University, which seems to be setting itself up in the position of a crosscountry power, won its third consecutive meet.

The fourteen man team seemed a little unhappy about having their streak broken, but realized that they had lost to a very fine team.

New Streak

The Hounds have lost their fourteen game winning streak, but in the C.U. meet they proved that they have the guns to start another. Frampton proved in this meet that he has what it takes to be a consistent winner in Mason-Dixon competition. And if Lew Smith and Bill Jenkins continue to score well the Hounds will be able to get a new streak started.

Voith Sick

In addition to these three Hound runners Dennis Voith should come through to give the Hounds the necessary spark to be a consistent winner. Denny, although hampered by a severe cold, was still able to finish a respectable tenth in the C.U. meet.

So don't count the Hound Harriers out this year.
